

CARBOLIC ACID
WAS SWALLOWED

Mrs. William Mails East of Seymour,
Attempted Suicide Late Thursday Afternoon.

SHE HAD BEEN DESPONDENT.

Had Brooded All Day Over Family's
Financial Condition. Life
Was Saved.

As the result of despondency, Mrs. William Mails attempted to commit suicide by taking carbolic acid late Thursday afternoon at her home east of Seymour just beyond Mutton creek and this side of the Jennings county line.

Her husband had been absent from home and when he returned about five o'clock he found his wife in an unconscious condition. Word was sent to Seymour at once for a physician and when he arrived he found the woman in a critical condition. After working with her for some time she regained consciousness and during the night improved considerably. Today she was much better and it is believed she is about out of danger.

When she regained consciousness Thursday night she denied that she had taken any poison or attempted suicide. Later however, after the physician's departure, she acknowledged to neighbors who had come to the house that she had taken carbolic acid. She had held the bottle as far down the throat as possible so as not to burn her mouth.

She told Mrs. L. E. Pumphrey, who lives not far from the Mails home, that she had been very despondent on account of the hard time the family has had to make a living and that all day Thursday she had brooded over conditions. It is thought she had secured the acid with the intention of taking her life. It is said that several times recently while despondent she had threatened suicide. The family is quite poor and besides the husband and wife there are four children, all small.

Late last night after Mrs. Mails was much improved she expressed regret that she had attempted to take her life.

MAD DOG KILLED

Shot at Home of Owner on West Third Street.

A mad dog was killed in Seymour this morning. It was a spotted coach dog and belonged to Harvey McCord, who lives at the corner of Third and Pine streets.

Two or three weeks ago it was badly bitten by another dog during a fierce fight. This morning when Mr. McCord went to the barn he noticed that the dog was snapping at things and was acting suspiciously. He shut it in the barn and cautioned his wife to watch it carefully during the day. Later the dog escaped from the barn and would not allow Mrs. McCord, who was in the yard, to enter the rear door of the house, snapping at her viciously. She finally, however, managed to enter another door and called up the police station. Melvin Jerrell and Bert Wallace took shot guns and started to the McCord home. When they reached there Scott Everhart was already on hand with a rifle. The dog was on the front porch and was snapping at things, shaking and frothing at the mouth. Mr. Everhart finally got a shot at the animal and killed it. The dog had been watched carefully after it developed dangerous symptoms this morning and it is not believed it had bitten any other animal.

A BIG DEAL

I. N. Persinger Buys Farm and Disposes of Seymour Property.

I. N. Persinger of Brownstown was in Daviess county Thursday and closed a deal for 233½ acres of fine land. The consideration was $26,000. The land was secured from Charles Nicholson, a wealthy man whose home is at Wheatland. As part consideration Mr. Persinger gave the Frey property on East Second street in this city which he purchased last year. Mr. Nicholson's present intention is to improve the property this year, probably build a brick business block.

DIED.

Frische:—The remains of Mrs. Louise Frische, who died Wednesday at the home of her daughter in Indianapolis, were brought here this morning and taken to Brownstown for burial.

Mrs. Frische has spent most of her life in Jackson county and only left it about three months ago to make her home with her daughter. She was past 80 years old.

The funeral services will be held Sunday at 12:30 from the residence and 10 o'clock from the German Lutheran church at Brownstown, conducted by Rev. Schumm. Burial in the Lutheran cemetery.

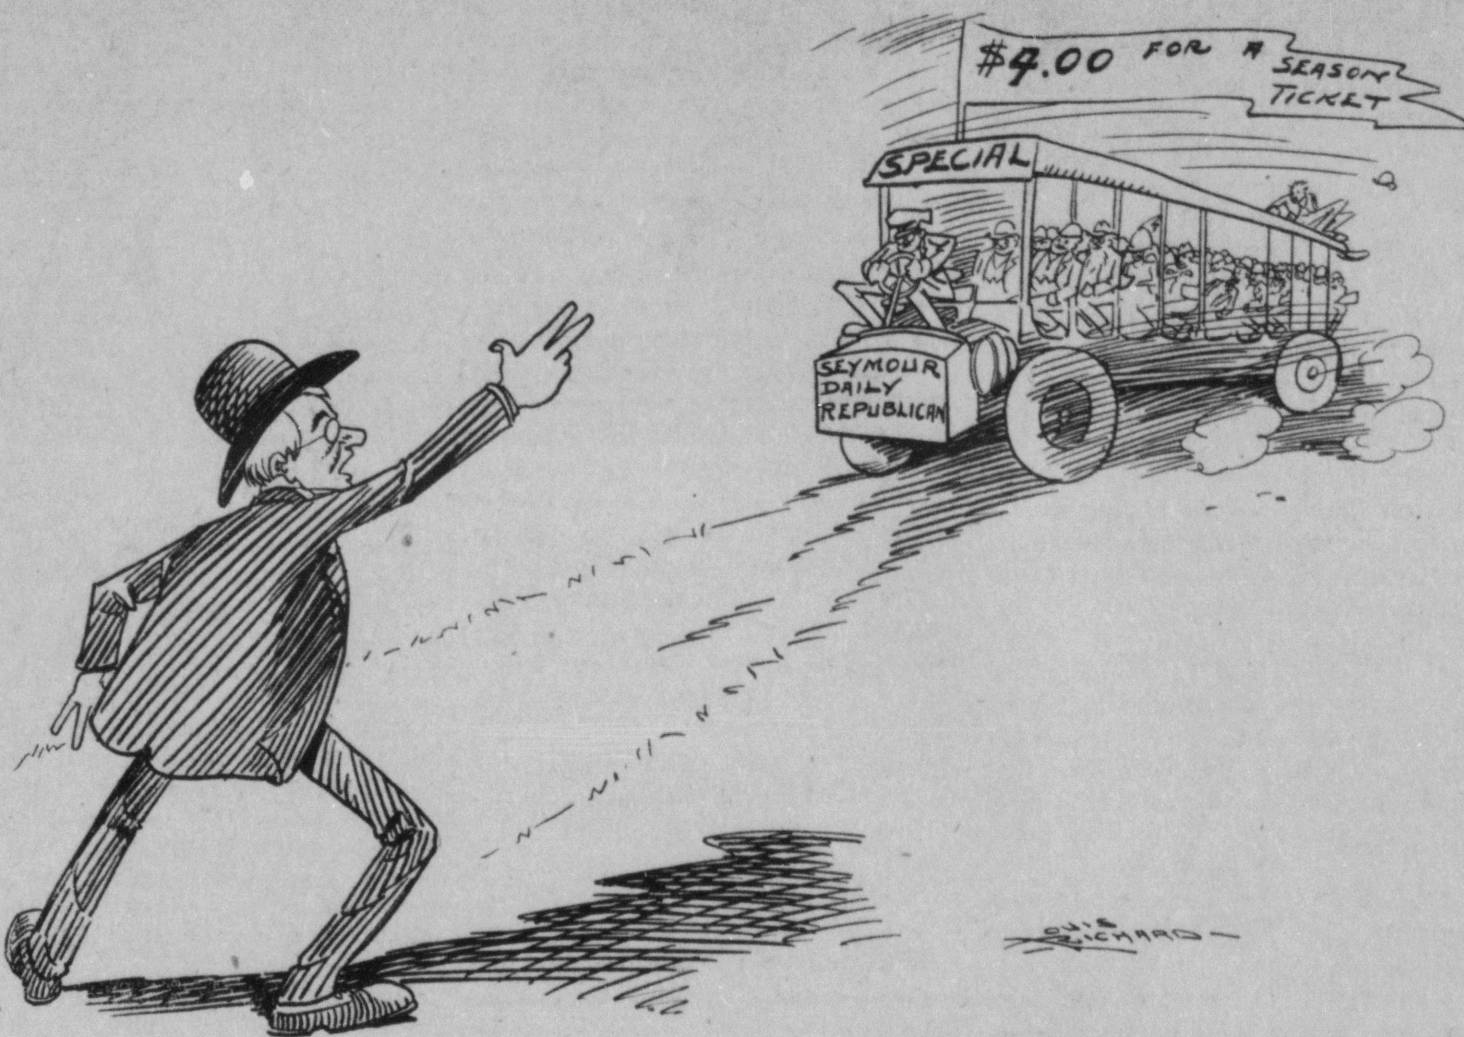

A number of our local Scientists will attend the free Christian Science lecture to be given at McCauley's Theatre, Louisville, Sunday evening next by Virgil Strickler, formerly First Reader of Second Christian Scientist church, New York City, the home church of the widely known Mrs. Stetson.

The funeral services of the late Alexander Dougherty of Brownstown will be held Saturday afternoon from the M. E. church there, conducted by Rev. Edward F. Schneider.

Postal Authorities Issue Strict Instructions to Newspapers.

The following from the Lebanon Reporter is of interest in Seymour as well as in Lebanon:

The question frequently comes up in this city as well as others as to just how far a newspaper can go in publishing news items or advertisements concerning the various schemes devised by merchants and others in which the element of chance enters. A newspaper can go just as far in this matter as the rules and regulations of the postoffice department permit and no further, because a newspaper must use the mails. The rules and regulations provide that all matter relating to guessing contests, drawings, and other schemes in which the award of prizes is dependent upon lot or chance is unavailable and the penalty for violation is a fine of not over $500 or imprisonment for not over one year.

A number of cases have come up in Lebanon at different times in which there was a difference of opinion as to whether the prohibitive regulation applied. They were cases in which the element of skill and judgment entered as well as that of chance. In order to settle the matter Postmaster Heath consulted the department as to several specific cases. A letter from the assistant attorney-general for the department made it clear that the law is even more sweeping than had been supposed and applies to all propositions in which the element of chance enters even though skill, judgment and intelligent calculation also are used by those who are contesting for the prizes. Accordingly it will be necessary in the future to apply the regulations even more stringently than in the past.

THE ILLNESS OF DEFENDANT

Causes Postponement of Trial of Hugh Burrell Until Next Term.

SAM CORYELL FOUND GUILTY.

He Was Charged With Shooting At His Wife With Intent To Kill.

Hugh Burrell, the Brownstown ex-banker, was to have been placed on trial in the circuit court today on the charge of forgery, but the trial was postponed until next term of court on account of illness of the defendant.

He is sick at the home of a relative and the statement of a physician who had examined him was submitted to the court in support of the claim that the defendant was unable to appear for trial.

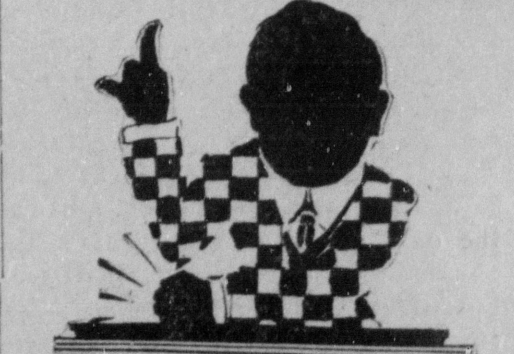

No definite date was set for the trial.

Since last summer Sam Coryell of Uniontown has had many troubles, has been subjected to numerous arrests and trials, has been dodging in and out of jail and has had family difficulties but as last he seems to have found a haven of refuge from the storms of life in the Michigan City prison. And it is good for from two to fourteen years.

Sam was tried in the circuit court Thursday on the charge of attempting to shoot his wife. The state placed his wife and two of his children on the stand to testify to the truth of the charge. The prosecution it is stated also had numerous persons present to testify as to the defendant's bad reputation as regards truth and veracity if necessary. However the defense placed no witnesses on the stand and the case went to the jury after the argument. The jury was out but a short time and returned a verdict of guilty and the prisoner drew a term of from two to fourteen years.

SESSION HELD
BY THE COUNCIL

Ordinance For Increases of Salary For Firemen Was Again Introduced.

FOR STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Ewing Street Bids Were Opened and Referred To Board of Works.

A regular session of the city council was held Thursday evening.

Sherman Day introduced an ordinance amending the salary ordinance so as to provide an increase of the salaries of fireman from $540 to $600. The attorney was asked for an opinion as to legality of proposition. He stated as in the past that there has never been a court decision on the matter as to whether firemen are officers or employees. He said he had read a newspaper report however that the state board of accounts in response to a request from Lebanon officials had ruled that firemen are only employees and their salaries can therefore be increased at any time. Voted that ordinance take the regular course.

The ordinance regulating sewer and other connections on streets to be permanently improved was read the second and third times and under suspension of rules was passed.

Davison reported action of Board of Works making change in Read-Jordan sewer so as to run it west on Sixth street instead of crossing street.

On motion of Hodapp, John Goodale was appointed inspector for North Chestnut street improvement, interested property owners having petitioned for his appointment. Ordered that inspector familiarize himself with plans and specifications for improvement.

It was the time for hearing objections to improvement of alley in rear of interurban. Frank Jones, representing the Southeastern, spoke. He said the company was in favor of this or any other public improvement in the city and would make no objections if assurance was given that alley would be improved the full width, and that the placing of ashes, debris and various obstructions in the alley by certain property owners would be stopped. Assurance given by the council. A resolution confirming original resolution for the improvement was then passed.

Misch said that on account of the many political and other gatherings in the city hall, the janitor of the building was objecting to wages paid her for work. On motion of W. R. Day parties or organizations holding meetings in hall shall pay $1 janitor fee. The Grand Army was excepted from this rule.

Bids for the North Ewing street improvement from 7th street to 9th street. DeGolyer & Smith and Ewing Shields submitted bids and they were referred to the Board of Works.

DeGolyer & Smith's bid was 97 cents per square yd. for cement concrete, 40 cents per lineal foot for curb and gutter, 40 cents per foot for marginal stone curb. On vitrified

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

For several years this woman suffered the infliction of a drunken husband. He finally left her the heritage of two small children and some bitter memories.

For twenty years now she has been janitress of a building.

Out of her earnings she gave her children a common school education. Also she wisely threw up against a rainy day the dike of a savings bank account.

The floods came.

Inheriting diseased tendencies from the father, the children died one after the other, neither of them coming to adult age.

The illness, the doctor's fees, the funeral expenses and the two modest headstones in the cemetery took the poor woman's entire savings.

The days following each funeral she went back to her work, her face a shade paler and with a sad smile.

Now she has thrown up a second barrier against misfortune—another savings account. And never in twenty years has she been known to whine or whimper or intrude her troubles. And despite her many sorrows there is sunshine in her face.

One day she was asked the secret of her brave fight and contentment with her status in the world, whereupon she replied:

"It never changes a thing to complain, and people do not like it."

A commonplace story?

It is not! It is the story of an unusual woman who has made an unusual struggle and kept sweet; a woman who, though uneducated, is in possession of an intrepid spirit and an unusual philosophy.

Read again what she says:

"It never changes things to complain." Does it? If not, why complain? It is useless. It is worse than useless. Whining and moping make things worse.

"People do not like it."

They do not. They have troubles of their own. To persistently complain is to make a bore of oneself. If you have troubles, grin and bear them. If you can't grin, bear them anyway.

The world is quick to answer a cry of real distress, but it has no patience with a quitter or a grumbler.

Let the whiner follow the brave little woman. If need be, scrub the floors—and smile.

AVIATION NONSENSE.

Why should any aviator at this stage talk flying across the Atlantic in 30 or any number of hours? If he feels impelled to try a 3,000-mile flight in a dirigible or an aeroplane, why does he not turn westward, where there is plenty of solid earth to land on? There may be men somewhat foolhardy enough to attempt the flight from Newfoundland to Ireland. It is a sure and easy way of achieving passing notoriety and incidentally of committing suicide by drowning, says the New York World. There will be time enough to talk of crossing the ocean in an aeroplane when this continent has been traversed by air without alighting. Back of this nonsense about flying across the Atlantic is the misfortune that the business of aviation has fallen so largely into the hands of showmen. They are interested chiefly in doing "stunts" for the sake of the advertising and future gate receipts. It is becoming a question whether practical advances will be made in the science of aviation in this country except the government take it up seriously for military purposes, as has been done in France.

Maternity hospital records in Boston show that while boy babies born there maintain the average height and weight, girl babies are becoming taller at birth and increasing in vitality. The statistics do violence to certain accepted notions of race degeneration due to women's alleged neglect of the home for outside interests, whether serious or frivolous. They have been charged with abandoning their "sacred mission" for public life or for pleasure and of menacing the country's future by their devotion to activities antagonistic to maternity. Yet neither their addiction to bridge parties and hobbles skirts nor their pursuit of "careers," nor yet whether they smoke cigarettes and occupy themselves with club affairs, appears to have made any difference. They have gone on their way regardless, in spite of reproach and admonition, and point to their healthier and heartier children in proof of their better understanding of what is good for them. The fact will afford small comfort to the reformers who have made woman's dereliction of domestic duties their grave concern. But the increasing size and vitality of girl babies may well excite masculine forebodings.

A very pleasant prediction has been made by a college sociologist that the United States is due for war in 1930 and that this nation will be in the wrong, as probably by reason of its wealth and importance, it will have become an international bully. He bases this assertion on the evidence of history. But to offset this are the facts that the direct rule of the people is becoming more and more the national ideal of government, and that with the people as a whole vitally in control, the peace sentiment will be stronger than ever. It is upon the masses, not the classes, that the horrors of war chiefly fall, and the element of self-interest will then be more engaged in the preservation of peace than ever before in the history of the world. In the meantime, potential academic wars need not seriously affect the national peace of mind.

We felt it in our bones all along that some of the foreigners who marry American heiresses would get what was coming to them. One has just captured a prize in the shape of a lady who is mistress of fifty-four tongues.

A pickered in an eastern lake was caught by a set line. He gave a disappearing lurch and pulled back into place the piece of ice which had been cut. Now we understand the phrase, "a wise fish."

Over in Russia a lot of fanatical women tried to crucify a man whom they had adopted as their "savior." It is sometimes dangerous for a man to make women think too much of him.

It is all right for a divorced woman to kiss in moderation, rules a Missouri court. We rise for information. Just what constitutes "kissing a divorced woman in moderation?"

Prof. Metchnikoff says that a fountain of perpetual youth exists within everybody's reach. Up to now, however, nobody has bottled more than a split.

Punishment in a federal prison is the real thing. The orchestra in the one at Atlanta has been ordered to play to the convicts during meals.

A Harvard man has kicked a football 30 miles in eight hours. And yet some rail about the unpracticability of the higher education.

Germany is feeling philanthropic enough to be willing to relieve overburdened Portugal of its colonies.

No man can feed on apple dumplings and remain an anarchist.

And next summer, of course, ice will be scarce and high.

WITH "ZEMO."

A Trial Treatment for 25 cents.

The makers of ZEMO—the celebrated eczema and skin cure—have placed on the market a trial treatment package consisting of a generous bottle of ZEMO, a trial cake of ZEMO SOAP and a 32 page booklet "How to Preserve the Skin."—This entire package to be sold at 25c, so that everybody can test the true healing and cleansing properties of ZEMO. We have received a good supply of these trial-treatment packages and urge all those troubled with Eczema, Pimples, Itching Skin, or any other skin or scalp disease, to come here and get the ZEMO trial-treatment. We heartily endorse and recommend ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP to all persons suffering from any form of skin or scalp trouble. It is a clean, soothing, healing wash and a sweet antiseptic soap that does not glaze over the trouble like salves, powders and greasy lotions, but penetrates to the very root of this trouble. ZEMO stops the itching at once and opens the pores and draws out the poisonous accumulations to the surface of the skin leaving it clean and healthy. Get a trial-treatment of ZEMO today—you'll find it the best 25c. investment you ever made. A. J. Pellens Drug Store.

TO RIGIDLY ENFORCE
THE NEUTRALITY LAWPresident Issues Proclamation
to That Effect.

Washington, March 15.—President Taft, by authority of congress just invested in him, and recognizing the existence in Mexico of conditions of domestic violence, promoted by the use of arms and ammunition procured from the United States, has issued a proclamation putting into force the revised neutrality law. Under the authority of the new law President Taft gives emphatic warning to all persons in the United States that the neutrality will be strictly enforced and all violations vigorously prosecuted. Officers of the United States are enjoined to exercise the utmost diligence in preventing such violations and in bringing to trial and punishment all guilty persons.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

LADY'S SHIRT WAIST.

This plain, mannish shirt waist has the body and upper part of the sleeves cut in one. It is made without any fullness, save that produced by the gathers at the waist line. The long sleeves are finished with a chic, mannish cuff. For wear with a tailored skirt no neater nor more stylish waist could be made.

The pattern (5659) is cut in sizes from 32 to 44 inch, bust measure. To make the waist in the medium size will require 2 yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

A LIFE spent in brushing clothes, and washing crockery, and sweeping floors—a life which the proud of the earth would have treated as the dust under their feet; a life spent at the clerk's desk; a life spent in the narrow shop; a life spent in the laborer's hut, may yet be a life so ennobled by God's loving mercy that for the sake of it a king might gladly yield his crown.

ECONOMY IN LIVING.

In these days of high prices it is well to remind ourselves that meat is an expensive luxury that can be cut in two. We do not need so much meat as we usually have served. A pound of meat mixed with vegetables and served as a stew will be as satisfying as a fifty-cent steak which is often only half eaten and thrown out to the dog or into the garbage can.

We eat too much of proted foods. It has been often proven that well-masticated food eaten slowly will satisfy the appetite on a third less than when it is hurriedly eaten. The over-amount taxes the bodily functions and is not only wasted but depletes the system to remove it.

For brain workers easily digested food should be chosen; rice, fish, eggs and custards are all good.

We want dishes that are good, wholesome and appetizing, and they may be prepared if thought and study is put upon the subject, at a great saving of the pocket book and no difference in the attractiveness of the table.

Codfish a la Mode.—Take a cup of shredded codfish, two cups of mashed potatoes, a pint of milk and two eggs well beaten, a half cup of butter, pepper and salt; mix well and bake in a buttered baking dish twenty minutes.

Mountain Dew.—Take a cup of cracker crumbs rolled fine, the yolks of three eggs and half a cup of sugar, juice and rind of a lemon, three cups of milk, and bake twenty minutes. Beat the whites and put over the top for frosting.

A well-equipped kitchen with all the conveniences for housekeeping is a great pleasure, but we must never get so wedded to it that in an emergency we can not get good results with poor, or no tools at all.

ANSWER IT HONESTLY.

Are the Statements of Seymour Citizens Not More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers?

This is a vital question. It is fraught with interest to Seymour.

It permits of only one answer. It cannot be evaded or ignored. A Seymour citizen speaks here. Speaks for the welfare of Seymour. A citizen's statement is reliable. An utter stranger's doubtful.

Home proof is the best proof. Mrs. William Himler, 604 S. Walnut St., Seymour, Ind., says: "A member of my family suffered intensely from disordered kidneys. A FINE MOVEMENT

Daughters of Indiana in New York. Extend the Helping Hand.

Indianapolis, March 15.—The Daughters of Indiana in New York have organized a big sister committee for the purpose of aiding any Indiana girls or women that visit New York and are not familiar with the city, or who may need assistance in finding places in which to live, or shopping, or to be of any service possible.

The daughters wish this information made known to the clubwomen of Indiana and to ministers who know of women visiting New York who need assistance. Letters may be sent to the Daughters of Indiana Society in care of the Hotel Astor. The daughters decided to form this branch of the society on hearing of a girl who lost her purse soon after her arrival in the big city, and who stayed in a park until found by a policeman. Mrs. Lois Peirce Hughes, formerly of Indianapolis, who is chairman of the press committee of the daughters, writes: "We do not care to have anything of that kind happen to an Indiana girl."

GRANDMOTHERS
USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented. If your hair is losing color or coming out, start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

Embargo Placed On Shipments of Arms Into Mexico.

Washington, March 14.—To thwart a gigantic conspiracy on the part of the old leaders under the Diaz regime in Mexico to promote the present revolution against Madero, this government has taken decisive action. While the United States government has no evidence directly connecting the deposed president with his conspiracy, it is asserted that his former friends and supporters are behind it. A big sum of money, estimated at $4,000,000, has been deposited in banks of El Paso for the purpose of buying arms and ammunition to be shipped from the United States into Mexico for use of the revolutionists.

It was chiefly this startling information that led President Taft to call together the members of the Texas delegation in congress and the senate committee on foreign relations. The situation, in the president's opinion, was serious enough to warrant extraordinary action. This action took the form of a joint resolution presented to the senate empowering the president to issue in his discretion a proclamation preventing the shipment of arms and ammunition from the United States into any foreign country. This resolution was referred immediately to the foreign relations committee, was promptly reported back favorably, and unanimously passed by the senate. A similar resolution was put through the same course in the house. This action will be a notable strengthening of the president's arm in dealing with neutrality matters, not only with Mexico, but with all other Central American countries in time of trouble.

SAFE REMEDY ENDS
CATARRH MISERIES

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh and Cold in the Head.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back, and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens the inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting hawking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it.

HOW READY WIT SAVED THE KING

Soldier Interposed Body to Receive Assassin's Fire.

VICTOR EMMANUEL'S DANGER

Young Anarchist at Rome Fired Point Blank With a Revolver at the King, Who Was Passing in a Carriage, but a Body Guard Saw the Act in Time to Spur His Horse Between Anarchist and Intended Victim.

Rome, March 15.—Antonio Dalba, a youthful anarchist, who was immediately arrested, made a futile attempt to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel. The would-be regicide chose for his attempt the anniversary of the birthday of King Humbert, father of the present king, who died the victim of an assassin's blow on July 29, 1900.

King Victor Emmanuel escaped the three shots fired at him from a revolver. They were aimed from a very short distance. Major Langa, one of his majesty's body guard, however, was seriously wounded in an effort to protect the king and queen. He saw Dalba aiming his revolver at the royal carriage and spurred his horse alongside, bending over so that his own body and that of his horse should cover the king and queen. Had it not been for this quick and brave action it is believed the bullet which struck him would have hit either the king or queen. The king has ordered thanks giving services for the escape.

Dalba has been convicted three times on charges of theft and once for beating his mother. The police found that he wanted to obtain a dynamite bomb, but could not find one, and decided to use a revolver. He said he had waited for three years for a chance to kill the king, and was sorry that he had failed.

The attempt on the king's life was made as his majesty, with Queen Helena was going from the palace to the Pantheon to take part in the annual memorial service in honor of the late King Humbert. The royal procession was scarcely interrupted, but proceeded toward the Pantheon, where the mass for King Humbert was completed without further incident.

JURY INTIMIDATED

West Virginia Court Terrorized by Armed Hatfield Clan.

Oceana, W. Va., March 15.—Terrified by the presence in the courtroom of over a hundred members of the Hatfield clan, all of them armed, the jury in the case of the state of West Virginia against E. Willis Hatfield, charged with the murder of Dr. O. E. Thornton, brought in a verdict of voluntary manslaughter. Judge James Miller sentencing the prisoner to four years in the state prison. The jury was afraid to bring in a more severe verdict because they had been threatened with death by relatives of Hatfield if they did so. The killing was one of the most atrocious that has ever taken place in the mountains. Big Willis Hatfield, in a drunken condition and looking for trouble, requested Dr. Thornton, a prominent physician, to write him a prescription for whisky, and on the refusal of the doctor to do so he drew his revolver and shot him through the heart. Hatfield is a nephew of Captain Hatfield, the noted feud leader.

EASILY SETTLED

Man Suspected of Having Been Murdered Stops Prosecution.

Muncie, Ind., March 15.—Believed to have been murdered, Charles Simpson, aged twenty-three, who disappeared from Perry township, near this city, eighteen months ago, appeared in the office of the county prosecutor, Harry Long, just to prove that he was very much alive. He came to clear the name of his old benefactor, Goldie Hewitt, with whom he lived at the time of his unceremonious departure. Hewitt was accused of the murder of Simpson, but an investigation failed to locate the body.

Senator Andrews Convicted.

Columbus, O., March 15.—"Guilty as charged in the indictment" was the verdict returned by a jury in the case of State Senator La Forest R. Andrews of Ironton, charged with having accepted a bribe of $200.

Washington, March 15.—Representative Akin of New York apologized to the house for the language employed by him in a speech appearing in the Congressional Record of March 7 in which he assailed President Taft, Senator Root and former Representative Littauer. He also requested permission to withdraw the objectionable matter, which was granted.

TO STAND OR FALL BY THEIR DEMANDS

Miners Say They Will Not Recede From Their Position

New York, March 15.—With a carefully prepared answer to the reply of the operators refusing their demands, the conference committee of the mine workers, which has met here today with the operators' committee in what may be the final conference, unless either side recedes from its position, went into the meeting. President White of the United Mine Workers of America, who is the spokesman for the mine workers, said that no counter proposition would be made. They will stand or fall by their demands. "It is up to the operators to make a counter proposition," he said, "and unless before midnight of March 31 the operators present such a proposition acceptable to us, work will suspend at once in the anthracite collieries. Not a man will work unless there is an agreement, and the country is now face to face with the greatest coal strike in its history."

Quarreled Over Their Work.

Anderson, Ind., March 15.—Theodore Eckels, a teamster, is thought to have been fatally hurt when he was struck by Guy Harmon, another teamster, on the head with a shovel. Eckels was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition and examination showed his skull to be fractured. The men had quarreled over their work. Harmon was arrested.

VENTED WRATH ON THE COURT

Mountain Men Slay Judge, Prosecutor and Sheriff.

OTHERS ARE FATALLY WOUNDED

Denouncing the Conviction of One of Their Number, Virginia Mountaineers Open Fire on the Officers of the Court, Leaving Three Dead and Three Fatally Wounded by Murderous Volley, After Which They Fled.

Hillsville, Va., March 15.—Seventeen outlaws of the Virginia mountains, with sheriff's posse of seven counties chasing them over the mountains are endeavoring to make their way into North Carolina after murdering Judge Thornton Massie of the Carroll county circuit court; Commonwealth's Attorney William Foster, and Sheriff Lewis Webb, and fatally wounding Dexter Goad, clerk of the court; J. H. Blankenship, a member of the jury, and John Mason, a spectator.

The tragedy occurred in the little court at Hillsville just as Judge Massie had passed sentence on Floyd Allen, convicted of aiding a prisoner to escape. Allen was given one year in the prison at hard labor, and Judge Massie had hardly finished passing the sentence when from somewhere in the courtroom came the words, "That is hell, ain't it?"

Then there was the sound of a pistol shot, and in less than a minute the courtroom was resounding with the snapping of pistols, the curses of the outlaws and the cries of the wounded. The first shots were fired by Sidney and Jack Allen, brothers of the man on trial. Hardly were the words "that is hell, ain't it?" uttered before these two men, who were standing close up to the rail where Floyd Allen was seated, whipped out their revolvers and began firing. Judge Massie, after the first shot, appeared as if to rise, but dropped back into his chair and fell dead, with his head resting on his desk. State Attorney Foster appeared as if he was endeavoring to reach the Allen brothers, but he had not made more than two steps when he sank to the floor, dying almost instantly. He is said to have been shot seven times. Sheriff Webb made a frantic effort to get to the Allen brothers, but by this time bullets were flying from all directions and the sheriff had taken but a few steps when he sank down and died within a few minutes. John H. Markson, who witnessed the shooting, declared it appeared to him as if every man in the room was shooting.

"From right behind me," he said, "a man emptied his revolver in rapid succession, and I could almost feel the heat from the bullets as they passed my cheek."

"I heard several men cursing, and one of them said, 'We will get justice this time, or break up this damn court and everybody connected with it.' Before the shooting I heard several men talking about the injustice that had been done them for years. One of them said 'A man has as much right to make whisky out of the corn he grows as he has to make meal out of that same corn. These damn sheriffs and judges cause a man more trouble than a prison full of thieves. Our children are hounded and our homes made unhappy. The only way to get justice is to go after it yourself.'"

"While the judge was passing sentence on Floyd Allen the courtroom was as quiet as a church. The room was full of people and outside the little courthouse were perhaps twenty-five horses saddled and tied to trees."

"When the judge finished one could have heard a pin drop for just a second. Then a man almost shouted, 'That is hell, ain't it!'

"As if these words were intended for a signal, the courtroom in a second became a veritable hell. The first shots came from the direction of where the Allen brothers were standing. Bullets began to fly thick and fast. It was all over in a minute. Seventeen men rushed through the room, knocking over chairs and tables and anything else that got in their way. They mounted their horses, fired a few parting shots in the air and disappeared in a cloud of dust."

The trouble started over a year ago. Two nephews of the Allens were arrested by a deputy sheriff. They were met on the road by Floyd Allen, who released them. Allen was indicted by a grand jury and his conviction precipitated the courtroom tragedy.

The Allens, it is claimed, have long been considered the most dangerous men in this section. They have a large following and the average citizen is afraid to interfere with them in anything they attempt to do. While it is generally believed that most people in Hillsville could identify every man in the band of desperadoes that are now hiding in the mountains, not a man can be found who will admit that he knows a single one of them.

CUMULATIVE PENALTY IN DYNAMITERS' CASE

Some Speculation as to Probable Punishment.

Indianapolis, March 15.—It has been figured that at the conclusion of the big dynamite trial, which begins Oct. 1 in federal court, if verdicts of guilty should be returned against any or all the defendants on one conspiracy count and on all the unlawful transportation counts, the maximum penalty which might be imposed on any defendant so found guilty would be thirty-nine and one-half years' imprisonment and fines aggregating $60,000.

This is because the cumulative penalty system prevails in the federal courts, and it is within the power of a federal judge if he sees fit, when a defendant is found guilty on more than one count, to fix the punishment so that the term of imprisonment for being guilty on one count does not begin to run until the sentence on another count has been served. As to whether this plan operates, is wholly within the discretion of the court. The cumulative penalty system also affords an opportunity to fix different terms of imprisonment for men according to the extent to which they have been involved in crime, as those "deepest in the game" might, it is pointed out, receive some cumulative penalties, and others get even less than the maximum on one count.

Lad Probably Fatally Burned.

Shelbyville, Ind., March 15.—Otto Glass, aged twelve years, was seriously if not fatally burned while at play in the kitchen. He attempted to reach across the stove and his sleeve caught fire from the open door. The boy ran into the street with the intention of jumping into Blue river, but passers-by extinguished the flames, but not until the flesh had been burned from his back, legs and abdomen.

HEIRS CONTEST FOR RICH LAND

Heart of Gary Steel Mills Involved In This Suit.

OLD FUR TRAPPER BILKED?

That is the Claim the Heirs of August Blocki Set Up, Maintaining That His Quit Claim of 160 Acres He Held in What Is Now the Heart of Steel Mill District Was Improperly Executed.

Gary, Ind., March 15.—It is said sensational charges will be made in the land suit soon to be tried in the Porter circuit court at Valparaiso, where in the heirs of the late August Blocki seek to set aside an alleged quit claim deed and to quiet title on 160 acres of valuable land in the heart of the Gary steel mills, now claimed by the defendants in the suit, the Indiana Steel company and the Gary Land company of the United States Steel corporation.

Blocki, who was a fur trapper, lived on the land from 1883 until 1910, the time of his death. He died as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by his own hand. The aged trapper is said to have become despondent when the big mills and blast furnaces towered about his one time hunters' paradise. Six heirs, his children, survive, and headed by one of them, Deputy Sheriff George Blocki of Hammond, a vigorous fight is being put up for the property, a conservative estimate of the value of which is $500,000.

Contending that Blocki, who was a German and who could not read English, was insane at the time he executed an alleged quit claim deed to the steel trust, his heirs will endeavor to gain possession of the valuable land.

Blocki came upon the land in 1883 as caretaker of the old Calumet Gun club. At the time the property was valued at but a few dollars an acre, and by agreement, it is said, 160 acres of land, now east of the Gary harbor slip and north of the coke ovens and surrounded by the mills, was given to him.

Hartford City Man Drilling For Gas Struck Fine Oil Well.

Hartford City, Ind., March 15.—While drilling for a gas well with which to supply his furnace, J. P. A. Leonard, living in South Walnut street, struck an oil well which is expected to be one of the largest that has been struck in this vicinity for many years. While the well is only thirty-five feet in the oil-bearing rock, 480 feet of fluid is standing in the hole and it is believed that it will make a fifty-barrel well after the shot. Property owners in this part of the city and owners of farmlands in the Lick creek bottoms are awaiting the result of the shot with interest. The oil sand was not struck until a depth of 962 feet had been drilled, while ordinarily it is struck at 935 feet.

Notre Dame Faculty Enforces Ban Against Cigarettes.

Notre Dame, Ind., March 15.—In the enforcement of the rule which prohibits the use of cigarettes to the students of the University of Notre Dame the officials suspended for two months William Poyntell Downing of Decatur, Ill., president of the freshman law class, and placed the whole class under a ban. The class will no longer be recognized as a college organization and has been forbidden to hold any banquets or dances. All members of the class who attended the banquet are regarded as having smoked cigarettes, and they and their parents have received the usual notification. A second offense will lead to expulsion.

Gathering Fish by the Bushel.

Muncie, Ind., March 15.—Hundreds of persons dwelling along the banks of White river have taken thousands of fish in the last few days from the ice left by water falling after a flood. Bass, carp and many of the smaller varieties of fish have been captured alive. A Yorktown resident obtained a bushel and a half of fine bass ranging in weight from one to three pounds. All that was necessary after the waters fell was to break the ice and take out the fish.

He Couldn't Get Bail.

South Bend, Ind., March 15.—Stanley P. Drejer is under arrest, and in default of $10,000 bail is confined in the St. Joseph county jail. He is charged with the embezzlement of $24,000 from the Kosciusko Building and Loan association. He is the former secretary of the organization and was reported short in his accounts by examiners from the state auditor's office.

Interesting Park Project.

Greenfield, Ind., March 15.—A movement has been started in this city for a public park along Brandywine creek, which was made famous by James Whitcomb Riley. It is proposed that the city buy land on both sides of the creek, which will include the "Old Swimm'n' Hole," and co-operate with the Indiana Forestry association in organizing a local branch.

First American Woman's Club.

The first woman's club in America was organized in New Harmony by the late Mrs. Constance Runcie, Sept. 30, 1855. This was nine years before the organization of the Sorosis club of New York. In 1867 Mrs. Runcie formed the Bronte club, and later became the head of an organization which has since that time borne her name, and of which she was elected president for life. At the biennial convention held in St. Paul five years ago the title of "Mother of Clubs" was conferred upon her, and two years later, at a similar gathering in Boston, she was received with signal honors as the pioneer in the club movement.

Climate Hurts Weak Lungs.

In this climate there are always numbers of people whose lungs are weak and who either have a chronic cough or else catch cold easily and are very likely to take pneumonia.

A New York girl, Miss Louise Jeset, has written a letter on this subject, saying, "In the past year I have been troubled with weak lungs and palpitation of the heart. Having heard that Vinol was a great strengthener I began taking it and it has done me a world of good."

"I have no cough now, my heart is all right and I have gained greatly in strength and energy."

Naturally, as soon as her strength had been built up to the right point by Vinol, all symptoms of her former trouble vanished.

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy, without oil, not only creates strength and enriches the blood but always agrees with the stomach.

Clark in Lead.

Washington special says: Champ Clark's big cleanup in Kansas today, when the twenty Kansas delegates to Baltimore were instructed for him, made the Democratic presidential score stand as follows: Total delegates selected—76. Clark—66. Wilson—10. Harmon—0. Underwood—0. Marshall—0. Clark's friends claim Indiana's thirty votes "after Governor Marshall is out of the running."

"They are laying special emphasis on the fact that Kansas is a progressive state and the fact that Clark carried it means that the progressives do not regard Wilson as the only blown-in-the bottle progressive candidate.

Other progressive states claimed for Clark are Wisconsin, which will express its preference by primaries on April 2, and California, with twenty-six votes, which will hold presidential primaries May 14.

The Kansas state Democratic convention unanimously instructed the twenty delegates from Kansas for Champ Clark, with Governor Woodrow Wilson as second choice.

Who?

She's very brave. She has no fear Of burglars underneath the bed. She wouldn't shriek though there came near A mouse—of mice she has no dread. She isn't timid. After dark She'd just as soon go down the street. And never think whom she might meet. She's full of courage. If a fight Should start up, anywhere or how, She wouldn't cling to me in fright. She'd calmly stand and watch the row. And who is she? What is her name? I really do not know as yet. I only know that she is game. She is the girl I've never met.

A Simple Distinction.

The egoist pours forth his song With ever placid mind: "The difference 'twixt right and wrong Is easily defined. When a suggestion I present On topics great or slight, Regardless of all argument, That's right."

"And when, upon the other hand, Some rival sage but in With arts of language at command Your confidence to win, And contradicts what I may claim, With reasoning mild or strong, The answer always is the same: That's wrong."

Surrender.

Oh, with your glances lay a snare, And trick me with your charms, Then bind me with your flowing hair, And lock me in your arms! And when your prisoner am I, Completely in your power, Condemn me, if you will, to die Of love, within the hour! And let this be my prison fare: Your tears and scented breath. Oh, I shall be resigned, I swear, So kiss me then to death!

The Ides of March.

Beware the Ides of March and it is Friday.

The ides in the ancient Roman calendar were the 15th day of March, May, July and October, and the 13th of the other months. It is the ides of March alone with which English speaking persons are familiar, this knowledge coming from Shakespeare's great drama of "Julius Caesar" whose assassination occurred on the ides of March B. C., 44.

Among the prodigies attending the killing of Caesar were: (1) That on the night preceding the assassination he dreamed that he was soaring above the clouds on wings, and that he placed his hand within the right hand of Jove. (2) A dream of Calphurnia Caesar's wife, that their house had fallen in and that he had been wounded by assassins. (3) The arms of Mars in Caesar's house rattled at night. (4) The doors of the room in which he slept flew open spontaneously. (5) The victims and birds of the augurs were inauspicious. (6) Solitary birds appeared in the market place. (7) There were lights in the sky and nocturnal noises. (8) Fiery figures of men were seen. (9) After the murder of Caesar it was remembered that an attendant removed his gilded chair from the senate room, thinking that he would not attend the meeting.

The last words of Caesar, according to some authorities were not in Latin "Et tu Brute!" "An thou, too, Brutus?" but were in the Greek and translated: "What, thou, too."

The Call of Reno.

"New wives for old!" The chorus swells. The leering junkman rings his bells: The cry is heard the whole world through: "Here's where we trade old wives for new."

"And you, fair dames, pray don't forget: You all shall have your innings yet; New men for old—a trumpery lot—Some few are worthy, most are not."

And louder still the chorus swells. The junkman louder rings his bells. His trade he plies the whole world through— New men for old; old wives for new. —A. O. S., in The New York Herald.

Song.

Thy glances are as swift and bright As lightning in the purple night When, like a saber, silver-white, It cuts the dark.

I do not fear the lightning's lance, But when I see thy bright eyes dance I shield my heart lest it, perchance, Should prove thy mark.

A Friend of the Family.

When Miss Ann Pickett dropped in on her neighbor, Mrs. Spicer, and found her moping over the fragments of a gilt vase, Miss Ann sympathized generously. "It must have been quite a costly vase," she said, looking admiringly at the pieces.

"No, it only cost six bits," Mrs. Spicer acknowledged. "Tain't that I feel so bad about."

"Maybe it was a gift that you prized because of associations—"

Mrs. Spicer shook her head. "Jim and I bought it over in Tompkinsville a long time ago; I prized it because it was such a saving to the family. The first year we had it I kept it on the front shelf for a general ornament; then when Jim's birthday came and I hadn't anything else handy to give, I gave him the vase for his own. Next Christmas, instead of paying out good money to buy something new, he gave it back to me for a Christmas present; then I gave it to Jim junior on his birthday, and he gave it to Sue Belle on hers."

"The next spring all the kinfolks got up a birthday party for old Aunt Sallie Spicer, and we took her the vase; after she'd kept it a good bit, she gave it to Jim's sister Jane for a wedding present, and afterwards Jane gave it to me and John when we had our china wedding. I was counting on giving it to Jim again on his next birthday, and now here it is smashed to flinders."

"I tell you, Miss Ann, it most makes me cry to think of losing such a useful family article—so near Jim's birthday, too!"—The Youth's Companion.

CHAPTER VII. IN THE PARK.

INTO a scene of rural tranquility in Hyde park rode briskly about the middle of the morning Jocelyn Wray and others. The glow on the girl's cheeks harmonized with the redness of her lips. The sparkling blue eyes mocked at all neutral hues. Her gown and an odd ribbon or two waved, as it were, light defiance to motionless things—still leaves and branches, flowers and buds, drowsy and sleeping. Sometimes at her side, again just behind, galloped the horse bearing John Steele, and as they went at a fair pace, preceded and followed by others of a gay party, the eyes of many passersby turned to regard them.

"Oh, they're stunning! It isn't often I see a man put up like that."

"Or a girl more the picture of health!"

"And beauty!"

Uncollected of these and other comments from the usual curious contingent of idlers filling the benches or strolling along the paths, the girl now set a yet swifter gait, glancing quickly over her shoulder at her companion. "Do you like a hard gallop? Shall we let them out?"

His brightening gaze answered. They touched their horses and for some distance raced madly on, passed those in front and left them far behind. Now Steele's eyes rested on the playing muscles of her superb horse, then lifted to the lithe form of Jocelyn Wray, the straight shoulders, a bit of a tress, disordered, floating rebelliously to the wind.

As abruptly as she had pressed her horse to that inspiring speed she drew him in to a walk.

"Wasn't that worth coming to the park for?" she said gayly.

"More than worth it."

"You see what you missed in the past," she observed in a tone slightly mocking.

"You were not here to suggest it," he returned quietly, with gaze only for blue eyes.

She suffered then to linger. "I suppose I should feel flattered that a suggestion from little me—"

"A suggestion from little you would, I fancy, go a long way with many people." A spark shone now in the man's steady look. The girl seemed not afraid of it.

"I am fortunate," she laughed—"a compliment from Mr. John Steele!"

He started as if to speak, but his answer remained unuttered. The man's lips closed tighter.

He offered no comment. The horses moved on. Suddenly she looked at him.

"Do you know," she laughingly remarked, "you are not very interesting?"

He started. "Interesting!"

He bent a little nearer. She swept back the disordered lock. An instant the man seemed to lose his self-possession. "Ah," he began as if the words forced themselves from his lips, "if only I might!"

What he had been on the point of saying was never finished. The girl's quick glance, sweeping an instant ahead, had lingered on some one approaching from the opposite direction.

"Isn't that Lord Ronsdale?" asked the girl, continuing to gaze before her. A black look replaced the sudden flame in Steele's gaze. The hand holding the reins closed on them tightly.

"Rather early for him, I fancy," she said, regarding the slim figure of the approaching rider, "with his devotion to clubs and late hours, you know. Do you, Mr. Steele, happen to belong to any of his clubs?"

"No," he spoke in a low voice, almost harshly.

Her brow lifted. His face was turned from her. Had he been mindful he might have noted a touch of displeasure on the proud face that she regarded him as from a vague, indefinite distance.

He remained silent. She frowned, then turned to the nobleman with a smile. Lord Ronsdale found that her greeting left nothing to be desired. She who had been somewhat unmindful of him lately on a sudden seemed really glad to see him.

"So good of you," she murmured conventionally as Steele dropped slightly back among the others who had by this time drawn near—"to arrive at such an unfashionable hour, I mean."

His pleased but rather suspicious eyes studied her. He answered lightly. Behind them now, he who had been riding with my lady could hear their gay laughter.

"Good looking beggar, isn't he?" observed the nobleman suddenly, his gaze sharpened on her.

"Who?" asked the girl.

"That chap Steele," he answered indignantly.

"Is he?" Her voice was flutelike. "What is that noise?" abruptly.

"Noise?" Lord Ronsdale listened. "That's music, or supposed to be; unless I am mistaken 'The Campbells are Coming,'" he drawled.

"The Campbells? Oh, I understand!

Let us wait!"

They drew in their horses. The black one became restive, eyed with obvious disapproval a gayly bedecked body of men swinging smartly along toward them.

And at the sight and sound the girl's horse, unaccustomed to the pomp and pride of martial display, began to plunge and rear. She spoke sharply, tried to control it, but found she could not. Lord Ronsdale saw her predicament, but was powerless to lend assistance, being at the moment engaged in a vigorous effort to prevent his own horse from bolting.

The bagpipes came directly opposite. The black horse reared viciously. For the moment it seemed that Jocelyn would either be thrown, or that the affrighted animal would fall over on her, when a man sprang forward and a hand reached up. He stood almost beneath the horse. As it came down a hoof struck his shoulder a glancing blow, grazed hard his arm, tearing the cloth. But before the animal could continue his rebellious tactics a hand like iron had reached for, grasped the bridle. Those who watched could realize great strength in the restraining fingers, the unusual power of Steele's muscles. The black horse, trembling, soon stood still, the bagpipes passed on, and Steele looked up at the girl.

"Few riders could have kept their seats so well," he answered, with in concealed admiration.

"I have always been accustomed to horses. In Australia we ride a great deal."

"For the instant," his face slightly paler, "I thought something would happen."

"It might have," she returned, a light in her eyes, "but for a timely hand. My horse apparently does not appreciate Scotch airs."

"Ugly brute!" Lord Ronsdale, a dissatisfied expression on his handsome countenance, approached. "A little of the whip!" The words were arrested. The nobleman stared at John Steele or rather at the bare arm which the torn sleeve revealed well above the elbow.

Th white, uplifted arm suddenly dropped. Steele drew the cloth quickly about it, but not before his eyes had met those of Lord Ronsdale and caught the amazement, incredulity, sudden terror—was it terror?—in their depths. The nobleman's face looked drawn and gray. With one hand he seemed almost clinging to his saddle. John Steele turned his back. He was bending over the girth of his saddle, and his features could not be seen, but the hand, so firm and assured a moment before, seemed a little uncertain as it made pretext to readjust a fastening or buckle.

"Why, man, you look ill!" Captain Forsythe, turning to Lord Ronsdale, exclaimed suddenly.

"It's nothing much." With vacant expression the nobleman regarded the speaker, then lifted his hand and pressed it an instant to his breast. "Heart," he murmured mechanically—"beastly bad heart, you know, and sometimes a little thing—slight shock—Miss Wray's danger!"

"Take some of this." The captain, with solicitude, pressed a flask on him. The nobleman drank deeply. "There, that'll pick you up."

"Are you ready, Mr. Steele?" Jocelyn Wray waited a moment as the others started, looked down at that gentleman. Her voice was gracious, its soft accents seemed to say: "You may ride with me. It is your reward."

For one restored so quickly to favor, with a felicitous prospect of gay words and bright glances, John Steele seemed singularly dull and apathetic. It was impossible she should not notice his want of attention. She bit her lips once. Then she laughed.

"Do you know, Mr. Steele, if I were laid I should feel hurt. You haven't heard what I have been saying?"

"Haven't I?"

Again she looked at him merrily.

"Of course I can't afford to be harsh with my rescuer. Perhaps—in the same tone—you really did save my life! Have you ever really saved any one—any one else, shall I say—you, who are so strong?"

A spasm of pain passed over his face. His look, however, was not for her, and the girl's eyes, too, had now become suddenly set afar. Was she thinking of another scene, some one her own words conjured to mind? Her mood seemed to gain in seriousness. She also became very quiet, and so, almost in silence, they went on to the entrance, down the street to her home.

"An revoir, and thank you."

"Goodbye—at least for the present," he added. "I am leaving London," abruptly.

"Leaving! To be gone long?"

"It is difficult to say. Perhaps."

"But—you must have decided suddenly?"

"Yes."

"While we have been riding home? Is it—is it serious?"

"A little."

"Men make so much of business nowadays," she observed. "It—it always seems serious, I suppose. We—we are moving into the country in a few weeks. Shall I—shall we see you before then?"

"To my regret, I am afraid not."

"And after?"—in a voice matter of fact—"I think aunt has put you down for July. A house party. I don't recall the exact dates. You will come?"

"Shall we say circumstances permitting?"

"Certainly," a little stiffly, "circumstances permitting." She gave him her hand. "An revoir, or goodbye if you prefer it." He held the little gloved fingers, let them drop.

"Good luck in your business," she found herself saying, half gayly, half ironically.

WHEN SHE COMES HOME

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

WHEN she comes home again!
A thousand ways
I fashion, to myself, the tenderness
Of my glad welcome: I shall tremble—yes;
And touch her, as when first in the old days
I touched her girlish hand, nor dared upraise
Mine eyes, such was my faint heart's sweet distress.
Then silence: And the perfume of her dress:
The room will sway a little, and a haze
Cloy eyesight—soulsight, even—for a space:
And tears—yes; and the ache here in the throat,
To know that I so ill deserve the place
Her arms make for me; and the sobbing note
I stay with kisses, ere the tearful face
Again is hidden in the old embrace.

THE PARALYTIC FORGIVEN AND HEALED. Mark 2:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases.—Ps. 103:2, 3.

After the healing of the leper great multitudes came together to hear Him and to be healed by Him of their infirmities. We can hardly imagine the innumerable happy homes, because where once sickness and suffering ruled now all is health and peace because of Him who, being anointed with the Holy Ghost and with power, went about doing good and healing all that were oppressed of the devil, God being with Him (Acts x, 38). See in this verse, as in so many others, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, all for us, and compare Rom. viii, 26, 31-34. In Luke v, 16, we read that He withdrew Himself into the wilderness and prayed. There was always a conscious oneness with the Father which we do not experience, because He always in all things pleased the Father (John viii, 29; Matt. xvii, 5). The healing of today's lesson is recorded in Matt. ix and Luke v, as well as in Mark. Having returned to Capernaum, the people soon found it out, and such crowds gathered as to prevent all access to the house in any ordinary way. Pharisees and doctors of the law from Galilee, Judea and Jerusalem had gathered to hear Him, and He preached the word unto them, and the power of the Lord was present to heal them (verse 2; Luke v, 17). But in their own estimation they needed no healing, for they did not know that with all their learning they were wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked (Rev. iii, 17). The religious god of this world, the devil, had blinded their minds lest the light should shine unto them (II Cor. iv, 4). What a contrast to their proud self-sufficiency and indifference to the welfare of others is seen in these four men who brought their palsied friend to Jesus, no doubt fully persuaded that if they could only reach Him with the sick one they would not need to carry him away, for he would certainly be healed. I have met people who were afraid that they had not come to Jesus in the right way, but did ever any one come to Him in so strange a way as this? I have often wondered what the Pharisees and doctors thought of having the roof broken up over their heads, yet we cannot help laughing within us, no matter how they might scowl, for the friends succeeded in getting him into the midst before Jesus" (Luke v, 19). In each of the three accounts it is written that Jesus saw their faith, the faith of the four who brought him. So in Matt. viii, 10; xv, 28; John iv, 50, it was the faith of another that brought health to the servant, the daughter and the son. May the words in Ps. xx, 4, 5, "Grant thee according to thine own heart and fulfill all thy counsel, * * * all thy petitions," strengthen some to lay hold upon God for others. In Matt. ix, 2, we have the first "Be of good cheer" from the lips of the Lord. See other four in Matt. ix, 22; xiv, 27; John xvi, 33; Acts xxiii, 11. The four words are in the Greek, just one word of six letters, but what a word, and from Him who alone is able really to cheer or comfort us. Then hear what follows, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." This is what the man needed more than health for his body. I heard it for my own soul in the summer of 1873 from I John ii, 12, with John i, 12. Have you heard Him say it to you? If not, why? There can be no real comfort without it. The scribes and Pharisees began to reason in their hearts: "This man is a blasphemer. Who can forgive sins but God only?" If they had thought, "This must be God come down to earth, for only God can forgive sins," they would have been correct, but to them He was only a man, a man of the common people and a blasphemer. Knowing their thoughts, He read them aloud to them, and we might suppose that this would have led them to see in Him more than a mere man, but they were thoroughly blinded by the god of this world. Then, announcing Himself as the Son of man having power on earth to forgive sins, He said to the sick man, "Arise and take up thy bed and go thy way into thine house." Immediately he did as he was bidden, and they were all amazed and glorified God, saying, "We never saw it in this fashion." "We have seen strange things today" (verse 12; Luke v, 26). We may imagine the four friends rejoicing greatly and saying to others that is what we expected. Are we giving the Lord cause to say to us, "O ye of little faith," or "Great is thy faith, be it unto thee even as thou wilt." His calling Himself "Son of Man" might have led them to think of Ps. viii and of one who was to have all things subdued unto Him, or of Dan. vii, 13, 14, and of one whose dominion would be an everlasting dominion never to be destroyed. If we have our sins forgiven we will in due time have perfect bodies like His resurrection body (Phil. iii, 20, 21), so that we can well afford to rejoice while in these mortal bodies, whether in health or sickness, waiting for the resurrection body. All miracles may be called acted parables, and in this palsied man we may see the utter helplessness of the sinner to do anything for himself, but Jesus is still the same compassionate one and ready to forgive sins by virtue of His great sacrifice for the sins of the world.

THE LESSON QUIZ.

The Paralytic Forgiven and Healed. Mark ii:1-12.

Golden Text.—Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits, who forgiveth all thine iniquities, who healeth all thy diseases. Ps. ciii:2, 3.

(1.) Verse 1—How long will an earnest Christian be in a shop, store or community before it is "noised that he is in the house?"

(2.) Verse 2—Was it Christ's person, his teaching or his miracles that attracted the crowd?

(3.) What are the attractions in this community which draw the biggest crowds?

(4.) If a preacher lives in close contact with God will he be certain in a populous community to attract the crowd? Why or why not?

(5.) If Jesus were to come here to reside and preach the same doctrine as in those days would he be popular with the average church member? Why?

(6.) Verse 3—Of how much benefit is it in these days to bring our sick ones to Jesus?

(7.) How would you characterize one who did nothing to comfort the sick, relieve the poor or help people in their trouble?

(8.) Which more nearly imitate Jesus in caring for the sick, the churches or the societies? Give your reasons.

(9.) Verse 4—If we are fully determined to have the members of our families saved by Jesus what can prevent us?

(10.) What qualities do you most admire in these four men for their insistence in bringing their sick friend to Jesus?

(11.) Verse 5—Which is the more calamitous and why, a palsied body or a palsied soul?

(12.) What relation had the faith of these four men with the forgiveness of the sins of the sick man?

(13.) How long does it take God to forgive the sins of a man who is really penitent?

(14.) Verses 6-7—Does Jesus here state that he forgave this man's sins or that God had forgiven him?

(15.) If any man of God is assured that a seeker of salvation is truly penitent, why may he not pronounce to him that his sins are forgiven? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) Verse 8—Was mind reading peculiar to Jesus, or have others a similar gift? Give your reasons.

(17.) Verses 9-12—The healing of this sick man was clearly a miracle. Was the forgiveness of his sins also a miracle?

Feasting and Fasting. Mark ii:13-22

PHYSICAL WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY.

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonials as to what your remedy Swamp-Root did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month I was able to work some and when I had used $8.00 worth of Swamp-Root I could do a good day's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the diseases for which you recommend it and have recommended it to many sufferers.

NEED ROOSEVELT SAYS BEVERIDGE

PEOPLE RECOGNIZE IN HIM THE "MAN OF ACHIEVEMENT."

WANT HIM FOR PRESIDENT

Former Senator Reviews the Great Record of Ex-President and Declares "Powers of Pillage" and the Interests Are Trying to Thwart Public Will.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 14.—Showing that business peace and steady prosperity demand the nomination for President of the United States by the Republican party of the man "with the gift of achievement," former Senator Albert J. Beveridge aroused a big audience in Tomlinson Hall last night to a high pitch of enthusiasm by naming Theodore Roosevelt as the man needed and wanted by the people for their next President.

"The long-continued, instinctive judgment of the masses is never wrong," declared Mr. Beveridge; "and the decree of the Supreme Court of American public opinion tested and matured through long years of trial and consideration, is, that that man who today best represents that well-being and uplift which the American people want, is he who so bravely worked their will and achieved their purposes in the past, Theodore Roosevelt."

Mr. Beveridge said that the present age is one of business, and that most of the evils of today are business evils.

"If we concede that any candidate that we name will stand for such business reform, still the practical question comes as to which candidate can be elected, and, when elected, can get these reforms written into laws, continued the speaker. "Roosevelt can do both. Some good men think right and mean well but cannot get things done. Roosevelt has the gift of achievement."

Mr. Beveridge said that every trick of machine politics is being used to prevent the Republican voters of the country from nominating Col. Roosevelt; that the same men who fought Mr. Taft four years ago are Mr. Taft's campaign leaders now; that the men and interests who so bitterly opposed the Roosevelt reforms are the ones who are now most active in attempting to prevent Col. Roosevelt's nomination.

Powers of Pillage Against Roosevelt.

"The truth is," he said, "that the powers of pillage do not intend to let Republican voters nominate Theodore Roosevelt. These forces are not partisan. They are for any man of any party against Roosevelt. They know if Roosevelt is nominated he will be elected. And they know better than anybody else what Roosevelt's election means to their practices. Therefore the real struggle is to keep Republican voters from nominating Roosevelt."

All champions of human rights, such as Roosevelt is, have been attacked in their day just as Roosevelt is attacked in our day, Mr. Beveridge said.

"Let Roosevelt's own record answer. It will tell you that this great-hearted man struck with any weapon he could find, every robber of the people and every power that set itself above the nation. And now they are striking Roosevelt."

The speaker told of methods employed in the Third Missouri district to prevent the seating of Roosevelt delegates and then said: "All this was done as a part of that desperate fight now being made on Roosevelt by the dark influences in the Nation—a fight that long since has resorted to falsehood against this strong man and now is resorting to violence to keep Republican voters from naming him as our leader."

Achievements Under Roosevelt.

In showing why Col. Roosevelt is the man needed to bring business peace and progress to the nation, Mr. Beveridge reviewed the list of reforms accomplished by Col. Roosevelt while president. He spoke of the suits against the Beef Trust, the Tobacco Trust, the Standard Oil Company, and Morgan and Hill's Railroad Trust, and he showed that despite the decisions against the Oil and Tobacco Trusts they continue now to raise the prices of oil and tobacco.

He named the creation of the Department of Commerce and Labor; the halting of the plunderers of the people's natural resources; the irrigation law which has reclaimed the desert; the workmen's laws, the national employers' liability act, the safety appliance act, the compensation law and the act forbidding railroad companies to work their crews for an unlimited number of hours; the meat inspection and the pure food laws; the law which is creating the Panama Canal; the settlement of the coal miners strike of 1902; the settlement of the Russo-Japanese war; the navy made a real force and the battleship fleet sent around the world; order restored in Cuba and Cuba restored to the Cubans; the finances of San Domingo straightened out; the consular service put on a modern footing; the postoffice grafters and those who had been stealing public lands put behind the bars and the reduction of the public debt of the Nation by almost $100,000,000.

"We are told that Roosevelt did nothing about the tariff," said Mr. Beveridge. "But railroad, canal, conservation, labor and other matters were the work he found before him. The instant need of things was his task. When he became President nobody was asking that the newly passed Dingley law be changed. Business had just gone through two tariff upheavals and could not have stood another one. But the country did need and demand railroad, labor, canal and conservation legislation. Roosevelt got all of these through Congress. During the seven years he was President his party's platform did not ask or pledge tariff revision. But it did ask and pledge other needed things. And these things which his party's platform pledged, while he was President, Roosevelt got done."

The tariff issue then ripened and came to a head, and the Republican party elected Mr. Taft on a platform pledging downward revision.

"Can any fair man doubt that if Roosevelt had been President for the last four years we now would have a genuine, permanent, non-partisan tariff commission and the tariff law so revised that no uprising of the people against it would have occurred?" asked Mr. Beveridge.

Personal Ambition Not the Stake.

The speaker pointed out the fact that Col. Roosevelt "already has had a career unequalled by that of any man and by few characters in the history of the world." He showed that personal ambition does not at this time make Col. Roosevelt available as the nominee of the Republican party. The nomination can only mean a sacrifice of peace and leisure, it can only mean toil and battle, and the certainty of abuse.

"Still we are told," he continued, "that, with all to lose and nothing to gain, with his world-wide and historic reputation at stake, nevertheless Roosevelt is trying to be President merely for ambition's sake."

"But good party men who really want Roosevelt say: How can we nominate Roosevelt and yet make our campaign on the record of the present administration? The answer is that we will make our campaign on the record of the Republican party and on the record of Theodore Roosevelt, our party's real leader. Good party men say we must indorse the record of the administration. Shall we indorse the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill? Shall we indorse the Winona speech? Shall we indorse the railroad bill of 1910. If so, which bill—the one which the administration sent to us or the one which months of hard fighting by progressive senators changed into the law that finally was passed?"

Mr. Beveridge recalled the fact that by some it was held that the Republican party owed Mr. Taft the nomination as a matter of party gratitude. "Yet," said Mr. Beveridge, "he has held office every day for nearly thirty years at the hands of the Republican party and all but one of these offices came to him by appointment. I am glad he held these offices and make no complaint of it. I mention it only because it is said that our party owes the nomination to Mr. Taft, whereas Mr. Taft owes everything to the party. And during nearly all these thirty years, what battle did he ever fight for our party until four years ago? Yet he read life-long Republicans, like Jonathan Dolliver, out of our party. Still, we are told that we must support him, win or lose, because we owe him our support solely as a party matter."

"But we are told that we must not be for Roosevelt because he has been ungrateful to Mr. Taft. I thought it was just the other way around. Roosevelt has done everything for Taft. What has Taft done for Roosevelt? Roosevelt continued and supported him in the Philippines, Roosevelt appointed him Secretary of War. Roosevelt supported him for the nomination and election as President; and only Roosevelt's vast influence with the people placed Mr. Taft in the presidential chair."

"But it is said that a third term means the downfall of the Republic. Col. Roosevelt ought to be elected for nothing else than to end this silly superstition. The third term idea came into being one hundred and twenty years ago when the world was afraid of kings. Today kings merely amuse us. With China and Persia and Turkey overthrowing their ancient dynasties before our eyes; with Russia putting the bridle in the teeth of the Czar; with Portugal throwing its kinglet over the cliffs; with Mexico kicking Diaz out of the country—no more comic idea ever was suggested than if we elect the best man to do our work for eleven years instead of seven years we are going to have a king."

"Roosevelt did our work so well that we want him to do it now. He is willing to do it only because we ask him to do it. To choose Roosevelt will not give him anything he has not had already; but it will give us what we want and what we need."

Celebrate Wedding.

Eleven years ago, March 14, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bryan were happily married by Rev. J. W. Clevenger, at that time pastor of the First Baptist church and the anniversary was celebrated last night at their home on South Walnut street. A six o'clock dinner was served, the guests including the relatives and a few friends. Afterwards the evening was delightfully spent with music and games.

The home was made prettier by the decorations of carnations and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan are among Seymour's best people and have the best wishes of their many friends.

The Wheels of Justice.

A man in New York murdered a woman. He was arrested the day of his crime. He was indicted within six days. Within 25 he was convicted and on the thirty-third day he was sentenced to die. Justice conducted the case thus far.

Then the law took up the case.

Thirty days were allowed for the filing a notice of appeal. It was filed on the last day. The serving of notice acts automatically as a six months' stay. On the plea of destination six months more were gained. To these were added time gained by quibbles of much the same sort. Two years after the sentence a supreme court justice delivered a scathing rebuke to the attorney for the defense for "inexcusable delay" in bringing the case to trial.

What else was the attorney for the defense to do? He was hired or appointed to fight for a life. He did all that the law allowed him and morally he would have been subject to rebuke if he had not.

The lecturer from the bench should probably have been directed at the law. But that would have involved looking up the legislators who wrote the law, the people who urged it, the governor who signed it and the courts that interpreted it. It was much easier for the judge to take his indignation and irritation out on a lawyer who couldn't "sass back."—Toledo Blade.

What She Spends.

In a discussion on how much a well dressed American woman is obliged to spend for clothes, Mrs. C. H. Anthony, of Muncie, Ind., who recently startled Washington society by wearing diamonds in the heels of her slippers, gave a list of her purchases made within a year. The list follows:

Two hundred pairs of silk stockings, $400; 50 pairs of gloves at $3.50 a pair, $175; 50 pairs of shoes at $15 a pair, $750; 6 pairs of diamond shoes, $7,200; 1 pair rubby shoes, $400; 3 pairs rhinestone heeled shoes, $450; 24 silk petticoats, $1,875; 15 fans at $15 each, $225; 30 afternoon gowns at $240 each, $7,200; one black velvet gown, 1½ yards round, $240;

2,000 yards ribbons, average price 50 cents, $1,000; 25 evening gowns at $400 each, $10,000; 6 beaded bags at $50 each, $300; 15 negligees and kimonos, $975; 4 permanent sets of furs, $7,000; 20 tailored gowns at $125 each, $2,500; 40 hats at $125 each, $5,000; lingerie, $2,000; other lingerie, not tabulated, $2,000; total, $49,930.

Art Exhibit.

The pictures are now ready for public inspection each afternoon and evening at society hall. There are fifteen prints, mostly of Brown county. The principal pictures are paintings in oil, water color and pastel. The work is by our best Indiana artists, among them Adams, Forsyth, Girardin, Grafton, Ketcham, Trobaugh, Stark and Steele. This is a rare treat which we hope every man, woman and child will enjoy.

VERSE WORTH READING.

Waiting for the Bugle.
We wait for the bugle; the night dews are cold,
The limbs of the soldiers feel jaded and old,
The field of our bivouac is windy and bare,
There is lead in our joints, there is frost in our hair,
The future is veiled and its fortunes unknown,
As we lie with hushed breath till the bugle is blown.

At the sound of that bugle each comrade shall spring
Like an arrow released from the strain of the string;
The courage, the impulse of youth shall come back
To banish the chill of the dread bivouac,
And sorrows and losses and cares fade away
When that life-giving signal proclaims the new day.

Tho' the bivouac of age may put ice in our veins,
And no fiber of steel in our sinew remains,
Tho' the comrades of yesterday's march are not here,
And the sunlight seems pale and the branches are sere—
Tho' the sound of our cheering dies down to a moan,
We shall find our lost youth when the bugle is blown.
—Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

An Ode to the Past.

Forget?
Why, how, in this short life of man,
Can there be space for such a bliss as love,
Too vast for anything but heaven above—
And yet,
On this same earthly span,
Be any time in which one could forget?
If memory is pain—'tis naught but pain,
That's sweet! for loving never's aught but gain—
The bearing of an emptied heart! 'Tis this
That is the perfect pain. My days of bliss
Gone by, are treasures—and, though they be wet
With bitter tears, O love, I'll not forget!

The Everlasting Light.

Ah! sad are they who know not love,
But far from passion's tears and smiles,
Drift down a moonless sea, beyond
The silvery coasts of fairy isles!
And sadder those whose longing lips
Kiss empty air and never touch
The dear warm mouth of those they love—
Waiting, wasting, suffering much!
But clear as amber, fine as musk
If life to those who, pilgrimwise,
Move hand in hand from dawn to dusk,
Each morning nearer Paradise.
Oh, not for them shall angels pray!
They stand in everlasting flight;
They walk in Allah's smile by day
And nestle in his heart by night!
—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Apologia.

I am too little for the cares of men.
It was ordained that I should tend the Spring—
Blow with a child's pouting lips upon her fires,
And nurse each lovely thing!
I have no mettle for the deeds of men.
It was ordained that I should tend the Spring.

I am too foolish for the storms of men.
It was ordained that I should dance and laugh;
With faerie ladies eat my honey crusts,
With tipsy goblins quaff!
I have no greatness for the griefs of men.
It was ordained that I should dance and laugh.
—Anita Fitch in McClure's.

No Telegraph Poles in Town.

The use of telegraph poles has been dispensed with entirely by the officials of one Welsh town, by making an arrangement with the property owners to allow the wires to be strung from house to house. There was some hesitation on the part of quite a considerable number, but the desired permission was quite generally secured conditionally in one portion of the town, and the improved appearance was so great that there was little trouble in securing the permission of all property holders. Now the new condition is a source of great pride on the part of the residents.

Used to It.

He—if we separate, why are you so anxious to have the dog? You never seemed to care for the beast.
She—I don't, but it will seem unnatural like not to have something growing about the house.

Julius Teckemeyer is not so well today.
